DESCRIPTION

The Bryan House #2 is a one-story frame double-pen structure with a full length front porch supported by turned columns, facing south on East Locust Street. A gabled roof runs parallel with the front facade. A one-story ell at the rear forms an inside corner which is enclosed and covered with a gently sloping flat roof. A brick flue rises from the center of the main roof ridge. Twin doors on the front facade are flanked by one-over-one double-hung windows. Narrow weatherboard covers the exterior.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Criterion: C Area of significance: architecture

The Bryan House #2, built c.1900, is a nearly flawless example of one of the most common vernacular residential forms, the double pen or duple. This is one of probably three dozen houses of this form in Rogers (an estimated 200 in the county) and one of the most perfect to be found in the city. It has continued to be a serviceable residence for more than eighty years, with little noticeable modification of its original form and materials.
