Description

The barn at the Louis Gray Homestead is a two story, wood frame, livestock/feed barn with a metal gambrel roof, board-and-batten siding, and a foundation of concrete piers. It has a transverse crib plan with a shed roof drive addition on its eastern elevation. Its interior is divided into five cribs on the western side of the first story and six on the eastern side. The upper floor is used for hay storage. The front or southern elevation is relieved only by the large central drive, the side drive to the east, and the opening beneath the hay hood above.

Verbal Boundary Description:

Beginning at the point formed by the intersection of a line running parallel to the southern elevation of the barn with a perpendicular line running parallel to the eastern elevation of the barn (located approximately 1,550 feet due east of the eastern edge of State Highway 157 and 300 feet due north of State Highway 157), proceed northerly along the latter line for a distance of approximately 200 feet to the point formed by its intersection with a perpendicular line running parallel to the northern elevation of the building; thence proceed westerly along said line for a distance of approximately 200 feet to a point formed by its intersection with a perpendicular line running parallel to the western elevation of the building; thence proceed southerly for a distance of approximately 200 feet along said line to its intersection with a perpendicular line running parallel to the southern elevation of the barn; thence proceed easterly for a distance of approximately 200 feet along said line to the point of beginning.

Boundary Justification:

This resource was constructed as part of a larger farmstead that has lost its integrity as such; therefore, this boundary includes all the property known to be historically associated with this resource.
