Description

The Emmett Miller House is a single story, wood frame Craftsman residence. Its gable roof and symmetrically-placed end porches are perfectly balanced around the northern entrance porch and form an absolutely symmetrical side gabled plan. Two square brick chimneys rise through the ridge and are symmetrically-placed around this axis also. The roof is covered with composition shingles, the walls are sheathed with novelty siding, and the entire structure rests upon brick piers.

The eastern or front elevation features a central, parallel gable roof porch supported on sloping wood columns and brick piers. Two central entries are flanked by two four-over-one wood sash windows. A square single-pane window is set diagonally to the south between the porch roof and the main gable cornice. The sides of the porch are decorated with exposed rafters and the gable ends are decorated with knee brackets. The porch floor is accessed by a central front stair.

The southern elevation is lighted by a series of four-over-one wood sash windows and displays the symmetrical organization of the structure with a shed roof rear room balancing the front porch. The northern elevation is fenestrated with the same type of fenestration though a central gabled bay projects from the wall and is accessed via two side shed porches.

The western elevation displays a central entrance flanked by two symmetrically-placed windows.

The Emmett Miller House is relatively unaltered and in good condition.

Significance

Criterion C, local significance

The Emmett Miller House (Part E, Historic Context #4) is the best example in the Plainview vicinity of a single story, wood frame, side gabled Craftsman residence. It was built in 1938 by a Mr. Joiner for Emmett Miller. The axial organization of its plan around the ridge of the northern gabled bay is almost completely symmetrical. As such this house is typical of the third period in the evolution of Craftsman style designs in White County. Its floor plan has become very regular and symmetrical and features only the vestiges of the irregularity of plan and elevation which was one of the hallmark features of this building style.
